(B) [redacted] letter of transmittal No. 66 WSR 100.39, dated 7 August 1967

Gentlemen:

25X1A

This letter is to acknowledge receipt of your correspondence (reference A). We concur that the reports transmitted by [redacted] letter (reference B) comprise the pre-publication issue, per the verbal agreement between Messrs. [redacted] on 26 July 1967. Subsequent to Center review and comments thereon these reports will be resubmitted as publication master copies in fulfillment of contractual requirement for Deliverable Items.

With regard to the incorporation of Center comments in the publication master copy (final publication), and to clarify and elaborate on the 26 July 1967 agreement of [redacted] it was noted that the contract performance requirement does not require approval of the system design nor provide for system redesign effort. The approval or disapproval requirement rested within the study tasks "a" thru "o". It was the opinion of both parties that major redesign would be highly unlikely in view of the intensive review and concurrence by the Center of the Informal Memoranda submitted in study tasks "a" thru "o" from which the system design evolved. Notwithstanding, it was agreed that [redacted] would endeavor to incorporate any minor modifications which resulted from Center review provided such modification could be accomplished without an increase in contract cost or change in schedule. If major redesign of the system design were necessary it would be considered as outside the scope of work of the present contract.

The purpose of submitting the pre-publication issue in lieu of the publication master copy with its inherent delay in production and distribution to the Center was to accelerate Center internal review and approval of the system design so that system implementation might be initiated earlier.
